

The graphic features a dark grey header with a teal border. On the left, a vertical stack of colored bars (light blue, teal, blue, olive green, orange, dark red) is positioned next to the text "Impending Danger Threats". Below this, the main title "Seminar: Supporting Safety Assessment" is written in a white, serif font. A thick orange horizontal bar separates the header from the main content area. The main content area has a light beige background. On the left, "Week 6" is written in a dark red, bold, sans-serif font. Below it, the text "Learning Activities" is followed by a right-facing curly brace. To the right of the brace are three circular icons: a blue circle with the number "1" and the word "Overview", a green circle with the number "2" and the word "Activities", and a dark red circle with the number "3" and the word "Conclusion".

Impending Danger Threats

Seminar: Supporting Safety Assessment

Week 6

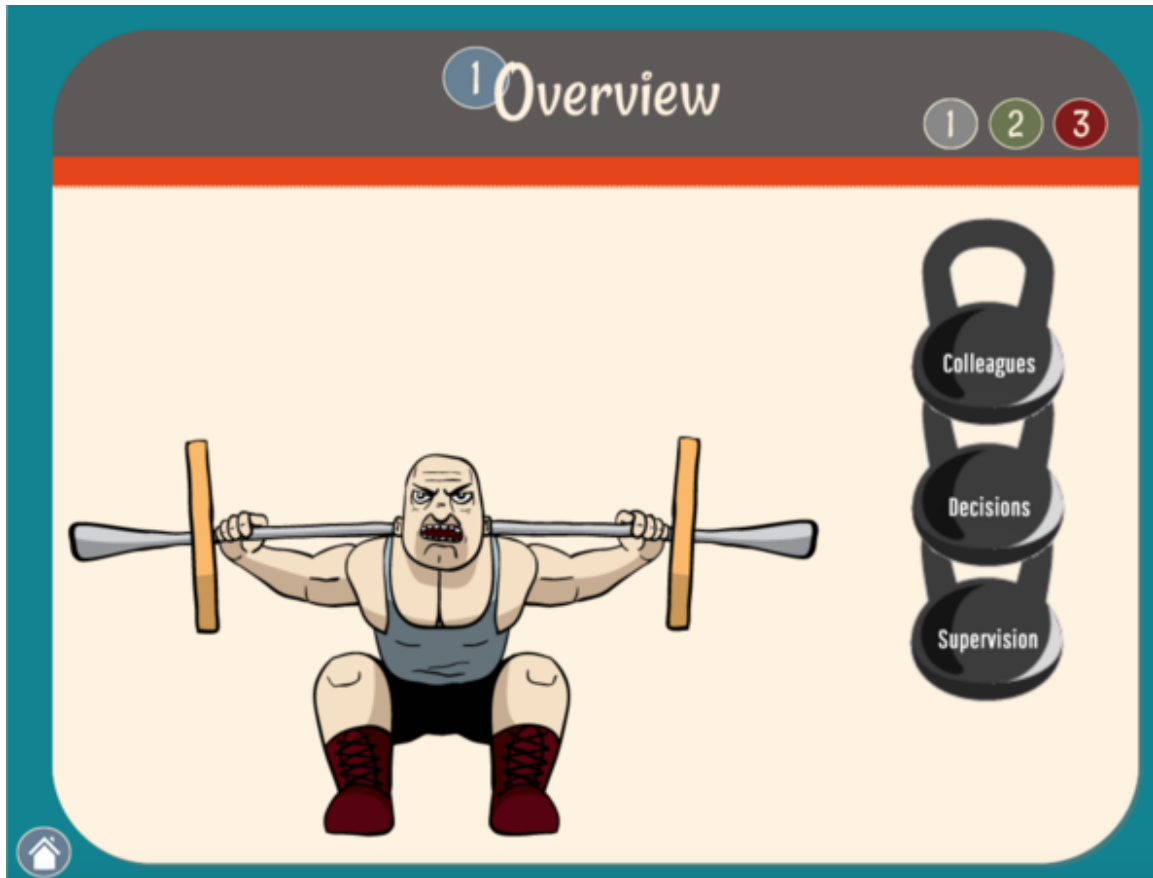

Learning Activities }

1 Overview

2 Activities

3 Conclusion

Seminar – Supporting Safety Assessment

You've been working hard and its time to gather for a Supervising Safety seminar!
The theme is Support!

- Information gathering to support Safety Assessment
- Supervisory strategies to support your workers
- Safety Assessment support for decision making across the case process
- And, of course: the support you get from your colleagues!

This week's seminar is about expanding the benefit of your efforts to the work of your entire agency!

Please click on the activity icon to hear about this week's activity:

Be sure to bring everything you have done since last seminar. Review your brilliant ideas from your Learning Buddy conversations. We'll want to discuss them at seminar.

3 Conclusion

1 2 3

The last week of Assessing Impending Danger! Congratulations are in order. Completing this training is evidence of the dedication and effort you bring to our profession.

"Hey! Remember me? We went through Present Danger together. I just wanted to come back and congratulate you on completing Impending Danger, too. This is quite an accomplishment. Your agency is fortunate to have you."

Your efforts are a contribution to your own professional growth, the support of your workers, and the quality of practice in your agency.